

Board Districts Updated Following Review

According to CVEC By-laws, the board of trustees is required to review the number of members in each district at least every five years.

The board reviews the number of members in each district to keep them as close as possible to the other districts. The board feels this assures every CVEC member has equal representation on the board and a voice via their trustee.

Following this review, the trustees felt a few changes in district boundaries were required.

The districts have been approved, updated, and can be seen in the accompanying graphic and on your monthly electric bill. You may visit canadianvalley.org/board-of-trustees for more information on all of our trustees or call CVEC if you have questions.

Space Heaters:

Play it safe

Space heaters can work wonders on the coldest winter days to warm rooms that your central heating system doesn't keep comfortable. But while manufacturers have worked to build more safety features into this alternative heating source, users still should take precautions to ensure these cozy heaters don't become fire hazards.

Space heaters are designed as a supplemental source of heat, not as the main source. So you shouldn't use them constantly, especially in 1005045901 rooms that you don't use much.

Check your space heaters for a UL seal, and follow these guidelines for safely using them:

- Keep space heaters at least three feet away from drapes and furniture that could catch fire.
- Don't use extension cords with space heaters unless absolutely necessary.
- Inspect the heater's cord periodically for frayed wires or damaged insulation. Don't use a space heater with a damaged cord.
- Check for a secure plug/outlet fit. If the plug gets hot, the outlet may need to be replaced by a qualified electrician. This could be the sign of a home wiring issue.
- Place your heater on a flat, level surface. Don't place heaters on furniture, as they may fall and break or even start a fire.
- Unless the heater is designed for use outdoors or in bathrooms, don't use it in wet areas.

Annual Meeting Continues to Grow

The 2018 annual meeting was enjoyed by many members from throughout CVEC's territory.

Members enjoyed great weather to start the day and came out in strong numbers to support their cooperative. At the event members were able to hear an update from General Manager Colin Whitley, vision from Board President Joe Semtner, a financial review with secretary-treasurer Matt Goodson, and an overview of CVEC Operation RoundUp Foundation from member Mike Matlock.

Members were thanked for their attendance with a $15 bill credit on their September bill, a CVEC cap, and a $20 meal coupon good at many area restaurants.

Members were also entered into a drawing for grand prizes, and new this year, a prize drawing from each district.

"We hope to continue to see a greater turnout from members traveling a greater distance by offering a prize specific to each district," states Jarrod VanZant, manager of business & governmental relations and organizer of Annual Meeting.

This year the cooperative offered a cash prize of $500 to each district. The meeting was well attended with over 900 members present, a substantial growth over the past few years.

VanZant said, "We continue to see year over year growth in attendance at our annual meeting, which tells me more and more people are interested in being a part of their Cooperative. We missed quorum this year by about 15 members and anticipate reaching that number in 2019."

The cooperative is continuing to accept feedback from members about promoting the event and the event in general and is looking forward to a great year and another great meeting in 2019.
